HISTORY AND FUTURE SCOPE OF BAKERY BUSINESS

A Bengali's love for sweets is well-known. Desserts are an integral part of almost every meal in Bengal. Over the years, the variety of sweets included in Bengali cuisine has expanded to accommodate new delicacies brought in by immigrant communities. The bakery industry in India has a similar origin.

The bakery industry in India first developed in the seaport cities of Kolkata (erstwhile Calcutta) and Mumbai (erstwhile Bombay) to cater to the needs of British soldiers and foreign travellers. But, over time the cakes and other bakery products have become an integral part of our daily lives. Here are some of the salient features of the Indian bakery industry that makes it an ideal market for investment.

- The Bakery industry is the largest of all food processing segments.
- According to IMARC, the Indian Bakery Market was valued at $9626 Million in 2020. The market is expected to grow at a CAGR of 10.8% during 2021-2026.
- India is the largest consumer of biscuits and cookies in the world.
- The biscuit and cookies market had an estimated turnover of $ 4.65 billion in 2020
- The cake market is forecasted to grow at 12.5% between 2019 and 2024 to reach a valuation of $882.4 million by the year 2024.
